In June 2008 Drae received her first certification as a professional dog trainer and began her career. She became the Head Trainer at a large Calgary dog training facility where she was able to continue learning and grow her skills. She has studied in complex behaviour challenges, animal nutrition, separation anxiety, and dog cognition. Believing that education is key, Drae has obtained several designations and certificates including CPDT-KSA (Certified Professional Dog Trainer - Knowledge and Skills Assessed), CBCC-KA (Certified Behaviour Consultant Canine - Knowledge Assessed), FDM (Family Dog Mediator), and SAPro Separation Anxiety. She was one of only four in Canada to pass the first exam for the CBCC-KA certification and on completion of Julie Naismith's SAPro Separation Anxiety program, received feedback from the program director stating that her final assignment was "...simply brilliant... one of the best sessions I've seen." She has attended a multitude of conferences to keep her education current; most recently the Aggression in Dogs Conference. In 2014 Drae opened Dogwit Training Inc. to bring her skill and expertise to dog families across the city and focuses solely on dogs experiencing leash reactivity and separation anxiety.
